

NET Working to Improve Radio Signal in Southeast Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb. (Sept. 24, 2012) – NET Radio is searching for a new frequency for its translator in southeast Nebraska now that a new station has gone on the air at 91.7 FM. This new station is a full-power station and is canceling out NET Radio's low-power station which provides service to the Auburn, Brownville and Falls City region.

“We are scrambling to find a new frequency,” according to NET Radio Network Manager Nancy Finken who explained that NET just got word of this new station late last week. “This is a priority for us and we apologize for any disruption in service,” she added.

Meanwhile, NET Radio listeners can still listen live via the NET website at net.Nebraska.org/radio or via their mobile device after downloading the free NET Radio Nebraska app. The NET Radio Nebraska app is available in the iTunes and Android markets and offers two streams, News/Classical (main FM station) and News/Jazz (HD2).
