

Popular British Detective Duo Come to NET Television

Crime. Murder. England.

It must mean there is another British mystery series coming to NET Television. And this one is a doozy.

Airing Thursdays at 10 p.m. CT on NET1 and NET-HD, beginning May 2, “Dalziel and Pascoe” centers around the unlikely partnership of politically incorrect Detective Supt. Andy Dalziel and his more sensitive and intellectual sidekick Detective Inspector Peter Pascoe.

Set in the fictional Yorkshire town of Wetherston, Dalziel (Warren Clarke) and Pascoe (Colin Buchanan) are always on hand to solve the classic murder mystery, while maintaining a down to earth wit and humor.

The popular British television series is based on the novels of writer Reginald Hill. The detective duo were first introduced to the public in Hill’s 1970 novel “A Clubbable Woman,” and have since appeared in 19 additional books.

NET1 and NET-HD are part of NET Television. NET Television is a service of NET. For a complete program schedule, visit NET's website (netNebraska.org/television).
