Map Discussion

In the link below, have students review the map of Nebraska and surrounding states that show which areas were most likely targeted for nuclear attack.

Have students complete the following activities:

• Draw a map showing the areas most likely to be targeted for nuclear attack and explain why they would be targeted.

• Which area would be closest to where you live? Where does the map indicate your family would be evacuated to?

• How would your life change if Nebraska suffered a nuclear attack?

Photograph Analysis

Have students use the Photograph Analysis Worksheet in the Resources section at the end of this document to analyze photographs of fallout shelters on this page in Nebraska Studies: http://nebraskastudies.org/1950-1974/civil-defense/

• What was the Nebraska Civil Defense Plan, and what were fallout shelters? Include a discussion of what items were recommended for storing in a home fallout shelter.

• What items would students take to a fallout shelter today?

• Would the items be different than those taken by people their age in the 1950s and 1960s?

activity

Discussion

• What was the purpose of the 1963 Roberts Dairy survival test for cows near Elkhorn, Nebraska?

• Describe the living conditions in the shelter for the cows and the Roberts Dairy employees who stayed in the shelter with the cattle.

• What did dairy officials learn from the experience?

Map Discussion

Have students review the civil defense plans for response to nuclear attack on Nebraska. http://nebraskastudies.org/1950-1974/civil-defense/

Have them answer the following questions:

• Identify the areas most likely to be targeted for nuclear attack and explain why they would be targeted.

• To what area would your family be evacuated and why?

• How do you think they determined the location of emergency hospitals and emergency cemetery sites?

• Do you think the U.S. government targeted areas in the former Soviet Union (U.S.S.R.) for nuclear attack? If so, how would the government determine which areas to attack? Would the U.S.S.R. and U.S. governments target similar areas? Why or why not?

Lesson Objectives

1. Students will analyze the Nebraska Civil Defense program developed during the Cold War and evaluate its strengths and weaknesses.

2. Students will compare and contrast the threats posed by the U.S.S.R. during the Cold War with the threats posed by terrorists groups today.

3. Students will assess the significance of the “fallout shelters” of the Cold War.

4. Students will develop skills to analyze primary resources.

Introduction

Introduce the lesson by providing students with a copy of the following information.

“In the 1950s and 1960s fears of nuclear war spurred a boom in building fallout shelters. These shelters could be built in a basement or under a back yard. A fallout shelter built in the corner of a basement was the least expensive type, and it supposedly offered ‘substantial protection’. In many plans, concrete blocks provided the walls. An open doorway and vents near the floor provided ventilation. The shelter's entrance was constructed with a sharp turn to reduce radiation intensity. Several Nebraska publications recommended stocking foods that would last for several months without refrigeration and that required little or no cooking. There were devices to help people know when radioactivity had reached safe levels.”

“Nebraska was the target of Russian nuclear bombs. With SAC on our eastern border, airbases and missile bases across the state and a major ammunition dump outside of Hastings, the state would be ‘Ground Zero’ -- the aiming point -- of nuclear missiles and bombers in the event of a nuclear war. The problem for civilian and military officials was how to devise plans that would give civilians a chance to survive a nuclear war.”

After students have had the opportunity to read the preceding information, use the following questions as a guide for the discussion:

• What is a fallout shelter?
• What prompted the need to build fallout shelters in the post World War II time period?
• What is “fallout”?
• Why would Nebraskans need fallout shelters?
• Would fallout shelters be an effective way to protect people? Why or why not?
• Is there any value in maintaining fallout shelters today? Explain.

The Process

1. Direct students to read information on the Nebraska Studies website at http://www.nebraskastudies.org/
   - Click on the 1950-1974 time period. Then click on the icon titled “Civil Defense”.
   - Then, read “Protests Against Nuclear War” and “Nebraska’s Atomic Ties” background information in the same timeline.

2. After students have had the opportunity to read the background information, conduct an oral discussion with students using the following as a guide for the discussion:
   a. Define the terms “civil defense”
   b. Who was Val Peterson, and what role did he play in civil defense?
   c. What were the key points discussed in the following segments:
      - Witnessing an Atomic Blast
      - The Family Fallout Shelter
      - Sheltering Cattle
      - The “Underground Capitol”

3. Have students analyze the image of a rural fallout shelter in the segment of Nebraska Studies titled “Rural Fallout Shelters” in the same timeline. Conduct a discussion with the students using the following as a guide for the discussion:
   a. Ask students to list all the items they can identify that are found in the shelter.
   b. Would a fallout shelter in rural Nebraska contain items different than a fallout shelter in an urban setting? Explain.
   c. What is a root cellar?
   d. Why would rural areas need a fallout shelter?

   Additional information on the type of food typically kept in a fallout shelter is discussed in the Spring 1996 Vol. 77. No.1 issue of Nebraska History magazine.
   https://history.nebraska.gov/publications/nebraska-history-magazine

4. Discuss with students why Val Peterson switched from “duck-and-cover” or “stay put” planning to a policy of “pre-attack evacuation.” What impact did the development of missiles have on the “pre-attack evacuation?”

The Process continues >
5. Instruct students to read the discussion of how Civil Defense officials were also concerned that the nation's farms would be attacked by bio-terrorists in the segment titled “Rural Fallout Shelters” in the same timeline. Then lead a discussion with these questions:
   a. Do you see any parallels between the fears of bio-terrorists during the Cold War and discussions today by government officials about bio-terrorist threats?
   b. What people or countries were viewed as likely to commit bio-terrorism during the Cold War?
   c. Would it be the same people or countries today? Explain.

6. Have students use the National Archives Poster Analysis Worksheet in the Resources section at the end of this document to analyze the “Radioactive Fallout” poster on the first page of the “Civil Defense” section.

7. Conduct a review of the Civil Defense discussion by emphasizing the following:
   a. What was the connection between the Cold War and civil defense?
   b. Were fallout shelters a realistic deterrent to a nuclear attack?
   c. The U.S.S.R. would most likely target which locations in Nebraska during the Cold War period? Would the same be true if terrorists were to attack Nebraska sites today? Explain.
   d. Are the threats of terrorist activities today basically the same threats that were present during the Cold War from the U.S.S.R.? Explain your answer.
   e. Do you think the propaganda techniques used by the national government information agencies with reference to civil defense were effective during the Cold War? Would their techniques be effective today? Why or why not?
   f. Do you think some type of underground shelters should be built today to help protect our state and national leaders from terrorist attacks that might include biological and/or nuclear attacks? Explain your answer.

8. Provide students with a copy of the “Omaha Civil Defense Manual” cover located on page 35 of the Spring 1996 Vol. 77. No. 1 issue of the Nebraska History magazine. Have students used the National Archives Poster Analysis Worksheet in the Resources section at the end of this document to analyze the manual cover.

The magazine can be purchased from the Nebraska State Historical Society. http://www.nebraskahistory.org/

Learning Advice

1. Provide students with a copy of the National Archives Poster Analysis Worksheet in the Resources section at the end of this document. Then, using the poster “You can protect yourself from radioactive fallout” on the first page of the Civil Defense section, model for students how they can use the worksheet as a guide for analyzing a poster.

2. Have students identify and/or define the following terms and indicate their connection to the Cold War and civil defense after they have had the opportunity to read the information “Civil Defense” segment of the Nebraska Studies 1950 – 1974 timeline and after students have also read pertinent passages from their American history textbook or other assigned readings:

- Behlen Construction Co.
- Civil defense
- Civil Defense Act
- DEW line
- duck and cover
- fallout
- fallout shelters
- Roberts Dairy fallout shelter
- Federal Civil Defense Administration
- ground zero
- Looking Glass
- Melba Scott
- missile silo
- Nebraska Civil Defense Agency
- Nebraska missile bases
- Nebraskits
- NORAD
- Offutt Air Force Base
- Operation Cue
- pocket dosimeter
- public shelters
- SAC
- STRATCOM
- Superbomb
- Underground Capitol
- Val Peterson

3. Review the History Nebraska website at https://history.nebraska.gov/ and familiarize students with the Nebraska History magazine: https://history.nebraska.gov/publications/nebraska-history-magazine

   Teachers/students can order copies of the magazine from the NSHS or check with their local library to see if they have copies. Try to secure a copy of the Spring 1996 Vol. 77. No. 1 issue of Nebraska History, which contains three articles that are useful for discussing civil defense issues.

4. Review the contents of the Nebraska Department of Education Social Science Resource Home Page and review the links with students. https://www.education.ne.gov/socialstudies/

LESSON PLAN
Cold War & Civil Defense

5. Purchase a copy of the National Council for Social Studies Social Education “The Social Studies Professional” issue for November/December 2003, which contains several articles on “Teaching U.S. History with Primary Sources.” http://www.socialstudies.org/publications/ This issue contains copies of the various National Archives worksheets that can be used to analyze a variety of primary resources. There are a variety of articles that provide information on how to locate primary documents on-line as well as in the local community.

6. Purchase a copy of the Spring 1996 Vol. 77. No. 1 issue of the Nebraska History magazine and provide students with copies of one or more of the following articles: “The 1950s: A Retrospective View,” “Witness to an Atomic Test,” or “Change, Continuity, and Context in Nebraska history, 1940-1960.” The articles contain supplementary information on the Civil Defense program. https://history.nebraska.gov/publications/nebraska-history-magazine

Conclusion

Students will have learned the role civil defense leaders played in Nebraska and the nation during the Cold War. Students will also have become aware of the advantages and disadvantages of the “duck-and-cover” or “stay put” planning and the policy of pre-attack evacuation. Students will be able to compare and contrast the threats the Soviet Union posed during the Cold War with the threats of terrorists today. Finally, students will have developed skills to analyze primary resources such as posters and photographs.
Assessment Activity

Activity Number 1: Essay

Instruct students to write a minimum 500-word essay analyzing the National Civil Defense program during the Cold War period. Students should include a discussion of the following in their essay:

- Reasons for the development of a Civil Defense System
- Pros and cons of the Nebraska Civil Defense System
- A comparison and contrast of the techniques used by the national government to encourage the general citizenry to be alert to threats from the Soviet Union during the Cold War and terrorist groups today
- Specific steps taken by Nebraska to promote Civil Defense during the Cold War Tell students to include a thesis statement, documentation, a conclusion, and a bibliography.

Use a rubric to assess student knowledge. Provide students with a copy of the rubric that will be used to determine the grade they receive on their essay. Teachers can create their own rubric or use one of the following rubrics:

Rubric

Activity Number 2: Multiple-choice assessment.

Print out enough copies for each student of the Civil Defense Multiple Choice worksheet in the Resources section of this document.

Answers to the Multiple Choice assessment activity:

1. A
2. B
3. C
4. D
5. D
6. B
7. D
Extension Activities

1. Instruct students to access the Civil Defense Art Gallery at http://www.civildefensemuseum.com/artgal/artgallery.html and review the various civil defense posters and publications. Have students select one of the posters or publications and use the National Archives Poster Analysis Worksheet in the Resources section at the end of this document as a guide when analyzing the poster or publication.

2. Instruct students to access the website “Fallout Can Be Fun.” http://www.slate.com/id/2078892/ and other websites that relate to Civil Defense procedures and have students read the background information. Then have students write an essay and/or conduct an oral discussion based on the following.

3. Compare and contrast the Federal Civil Defense Administration of 1951 with the Homeland Security Department and include a discussion of duct tape, duck and cover, Bert the Turtle, and the color-coded alert system.

4. Have students access the “Civil Defense School Book Cover” at http://www.civildefensemuseum.com/artgal/bkcvrback.jpg or provide students with a copy of the image and have them answer the following questions:
   - What were three things mentioned that the family or a family member should do to be better prepared for a nuclear attack?
   - Do you think this type of government program would have been effective if a nuclear attack would have occurred in the 1960s? Why or why not?

5. During the 1950s, government officials were very concerned that, in the event of an atomic attack, law and order would break down as the nation dissolved into widespread panic and hysteria. In its publicity campaigns the Federal Civil Defense Administration wanted to frighten people sufficiently to encourage them to take part in drills, but not to incapacitate them with fear. The following government-sponsored quiz appeared in the August 21, 1953 issue of Collier’s magazine as a supplement to an article about human behavior during nuclear attacks. It was intended to help readers avoid becoming “victims of panic.” Have students access “Test Yourself How Panic-Proof Are You?” located at http://www.pbs.org/wgbh/amex/bomb/sfeature/panicquiz.html.

Then instruct students to take the test and check their score. Conduct a discussion with students to see if they think the test accurately measured how likely a person was to suffer a panic attack during a nuclear attack.
